

RETURN ADDRESS LABELS

a class taught at calligrafest by Kacie-Linn Engle

In this class the artist will create an original calligraphic return address label. A few weeks after class in the mail, the students will receive a set of 250 self-adhesive labels of their own artwork reduced and reproduced. We will also discuss the design process and how to get calligraphic work ready to take to a printer. This is a great class for beginners and intermediates. Although the labels shown are the finished size, we will work much larger when doing our calligraphy.

About the teacher: Kacie-Linn Engle is a professional lettering artist and art instructor who is a member of the Washington Calligraphy Guild and who lives in Charlottesville, VA. She does calligraphic work for clients and every fall offers return address labels for her customers. She received most of her training in Seattle, WA through the Write On Calligraphers Guild, of which she is still a member. She has attended international conferences, Cheerio, and is currently enrolled in Reggie Ezell's year long class.

The class will be held from 2:00-3:30.

Materials needed: Bring your favorite nibs and holders as well as your favorite black ink and everything else will be provided.
